

For king and country?

[John Torode]

As a boy I grew up hearing stories and legends of Gallipoli and the Anzacs. It's fair to say they were ordinary people, like me, fellow chefs, butchers, drovers, workers, labourers – just ordinary everyday guys.

But sadly many were destined to die thousands of miles away from home at Gallipoli. And that's why I've come here - to understand their sacrifice, to tread in their footsteps.

I need to understand the legend of the Anzac – these men who fought and shaped modern Australia.
