

Catesby starts planning the Gunpowder Plot

[Robert Catesby]

Do not foresake our country, Tom. Surely you believe we must deliver England from the servitude in which she remains? Or at least assist her with your uttermost endeavours?

[Thomas Wintour]

I have often risked my own life for far less! I would not refuse any good opportunity to do service for the Catholic Cause. But I see no means likely to succeed.

[Robert Catesby]

I have a way. A way to deliver us from all our bonds. Without any foreign help, and in one instant. And so we shall replant the True Faith...

[Thomas Wintour]

How so?

[Robert Catesby]

We will blow up the Parliament House. With Gunpowder. For in that place they have perpetrated all their mischief. Perhaps God designed that place for their punishment.
