

Guess the Character

In the boxes below, there are brief descriptions of famous literary characters. Using the clues, are you able to work out who these characters are?

A famous London-based private detective. He is known for impeccable logic, intelligence and his ability to spot the clues that others often miss. Often portrayed with a deerstalker cap and resides at 221B Baker Street.

---

A young Victorian girl who, while resting on a riverbank, gives chase to a talking white rabbit. Falling down a rabbit hole, she has strange adventures in an unusual world that includes food and drink magically changing her size, a grinning talking cat and a riddle-filled tea party.

---

A Scottish noble who, after speaking to three witches, is convinced by his wife to kill the King of Scotland and steal the throne as his own. Slowly driven mad with guilt and paranoia, this man kills his best friend and dies defending his stolen crown.

---

Two youngsters from rival noble families who fall in love at first sight. These lovers marry in secret before one of them is banished following a murder in a public space. Eventually, the lovers take their own lives after a series of unfortunate misunderstandings.

---

Guess the Character Answers

In the boxes below, there are brief descriptions of famous literary characters. Using the clues, are you able to work out who these characters are?

A famous London-based private detective. He is known for impeccable logic, intelligence and his ability to spot the clues that others often miss. Often portrayed with a deerstalker cap and resides at 221B Baker Street.

Sherlock Holmes.

A young Victorian girl who, while resting on a riverbank, gives chase to a talking white rabbit. Falling down a rabbit hole, she has strange adventures in an unusual world that includes food and drink magically changing her size, a grinning talking cat and a riddle-filled tea party.

Alice from Alice's Adventures in Wonderland.

A Scottish noble who, after speaking to three witches, is convinced by his wife to kill the King of Scotland and steal the throne as his own. Slowly driven mad with guilt and paranoia, this man kills his best friend and dies defending his stolen crown.

Macbeth.

Two youngsters from rival noble families who fall in love at first sight. These lovers marry in secret before one of them is banished following a murder in a public space. Eventually, the lovers take their own lives after a series of unfortunate misunderstandings.

Romeo and Juliet.