

Troublesome technology

Woah is that a new video game you're playing on your tablet?

Looks like we need a password to enter the game. It should be something secret and secure.

We're in! Hey our friends are here too, it must be an online game.
So we're connected to the internet.

What else can connect to the internet?

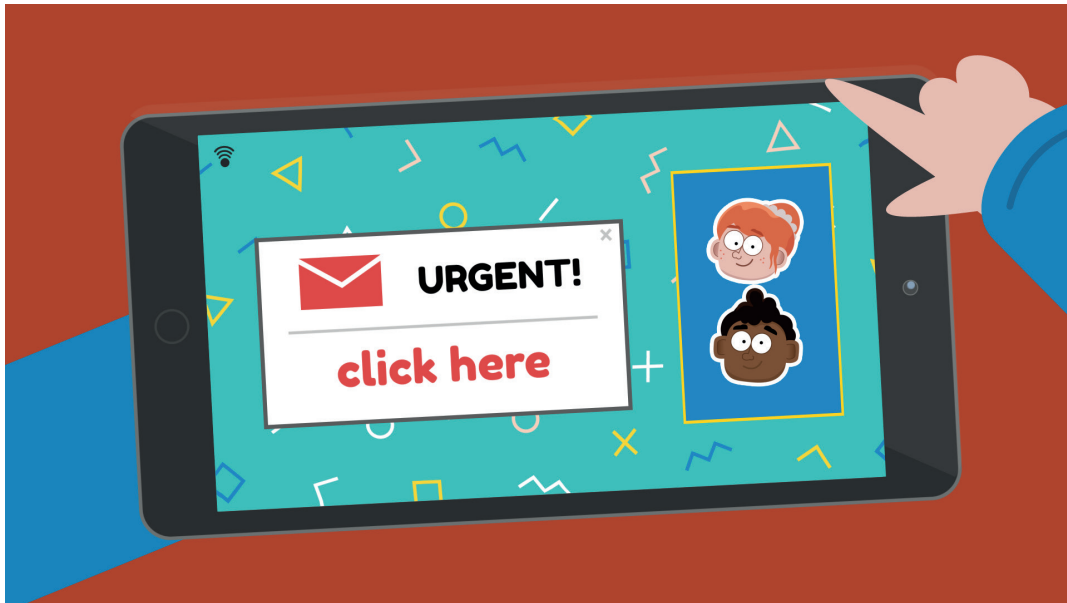

Phones, computers, televisions, smart speakers. So many devices and so much information.

But not everything we see is true and it's important to stay alert for things that might be trying to trick us.

Like this advert pretending to be an email.

Or a pop-up trying to get us to enter our personal information.

The digital world can be addictive so it's important to not have too much screen time.
